Vote for Willard A. Prince, the People's Candidate for Congress, Primaries April 19, 1912.—adv.

If you will insist upon keeping your bouquets for the hereafter, give your buns now.

Miss Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross, society, died at her home in Glen Echo, Maryland, Friday, in her 92nd year.

Major General Frederick Dent Grant died at 1:30 a. m. Friday in his apartments in the Buckingham hotel, New York City, of heart failure.

William Allen White says it is not necessary to run for office in order to serve the people. Every man-loving, God-serving man or woman is serving his land well.

The nomination of Governor Adair is one of the reasonable certainties of next Friday's primary. He has made Nebraska a highly creditable officer and deserves richly the people's confidence and vote.

Political Announcements.

I hereby announce my candidacy for County Commissioner, 2d district, subject to decision of Republican primary.—adv.
F. A. HODGKIN.

Colonel Roosevelt gets 67 of the 76 delegates from Pennsylvania. And Penrose will be retired from leadership.

"The wind bloweth where it listeth, but thou canst not tell whence it cometh or whither it goeth" would have served for lively and pertinent sermon topic in Nebraska, Sunday.

The genial vote-hesitant patriot from the political amen corner will be in hard lines, Friday, when he comes to vote. The primary makes no provision for putting that cross in a circle for the whole ticket. It puts more of a premium on intelligent voting.

R. B. HOWELL, Omaha's Foremost Advocate of Municipal Ownership.

After nine years of endeavor Omaha at last is to own its water plant, with an income of about $750,000 per annum. All this time R. B. Howell has led in this fight for city ownership against the Omaha water monopoly, and the "Omaha Bee," finally beating them in the last water bond election by the unprecedented vote of 12 to 1.

An ex-naval officer and Spanish war veteran, Mr. Howell is an uncompromising fighter and has served his city and state in various official capacities. His unvarying success in Omaha against Victor Rosewater, editor of "The Bee," is causing much speculation as to which of these two men will carry the state at the April primary, both being candidates for Republican national committee man from Nebraska.

Telephone Courtesy

In using the telephone as in every other matter, the personal element must be considered.

You are human and all persons with whom you talk, as well as the operators who connect you, must be presumed to have faults.

Our operators are instructed to be prompt and courteous, but they cannot answer complaints or carry on a conversation. Their whole time is taken up in executing orders for connections.

In dealing with you, we demand that all our employees be considerate and courteous; won't you afford them and the persons with whom you talk the same consideration?

Courteous talk over the telephone is like oil on machinery—it prevents friction and pays big returns.

The hastily spoken word and its inflection, no matter what its provocation, always conveys an undesirable impression.

In the light of the Pennsylvania landslide to Colonel Roosevelt it really looks as though the colonel can trust the people, who have in the Keystone state and in Illinois so lately shown such tremendous confidence in him. The result in these two great Republican states must inevitably tend to place the colonel's candidacy in an advanced position and that of President Taft in decidedly unfavorable situation. In the face of such overwhelming victories in two states so vitally essential to Republican success, the re-nomination of President Taft to be the standard bearer this fall would not seem to be either good judgment or sound politics. It is reasonably safe to prophesy that on Friday, Nebraska will swing into the Roosevelt column with enthusiasm.

Roosevelt stock is going up strongly now.

Having in mind some thought of the real genuine blown-in-the-bottle insurgency, how does Mr. Keester's platform appear to the reader? We are not acquainted with Mr. Keester, but there is no mistaking the quality of his insurgency, or progressivism. He is leading the van.

Remember The Tribune's phone is 19. We will appreciate an item any time.

Evidently the Penrose steam roller was not in effective working order in Pennsylvania, Saturday. Roosevelt swept the state by a two to one vote, and will get almost that entire delegation.

The primary election system needs no defense—in fact no advocates: Such disreputable and disgraceful occurrences as the recent Michigan Republican state convention are all that is necessary to make it clear and more conspicuous that the primary is a step in the march of progress. When state militia and police are necessary to control the angry passions of party factions it is about time to let voters go to the polls and express their choice like men.
